RUTHERFORDTON, N. C. SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1870.

NO. 20

GRAND REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING.

Below we give the proceedings of the meeting held at this place last Saturday, and we can but congratulate the party upon the different nominations. Every single candidate is a true representative of the farm or workshop, not one of them but what knows the full value of a dollar, having made their living by work, in fact they come before the people, as working men. While this is so, and while the Republicans of the county have not been forced to select Lawyers, Doctors or Preachers, yet they have put forward men of intelligence and ability, men who will manage State and County matters, with an eye single to economy, and for the interests of the laboring class. We were pleased to see the harmony, and good feeling manifested by the convention and are satisfied that it bespeaks for the Republican party success in the approaching election. All we ask to insure the election of the different candidates is for the party to work and we believe that they will do that.

Col. R. W. Logan, then introduced the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, 1st. That we heartily endorse the administration of President Grant, believing him to be an unadulterated Republican, a true patriot and a wise statesman, and shall heartily support his administration so long as it remains pure and unchanged.

Resolved, 2d. That we endorse the principles declared by the 11th May Convention, except so much as pertains to the endorsement of the Holden policy, which we condemn as unwise and imprudent.

Resolved, 3d. That we heartily endorse the nomination of Hon. Samuel F. Phillips for Attorney General, and pledge our united efforts to secure his election.

Resolved, 4th. That we favor reduction of the taxes, and the reduction of salaries and fees of public officers, to a reasonable rate, and that we condemn extravagance in the use of the public funds, no matter in what office or branch of the government.

Resolved, 5th. That we demand the earliest practicable completion of the Internal Improvement measures of Western North Carolina, and will support no man who does not pledge his influence to secure this end.

Resolved, 6th. That we invite all persons who love the government of the United States, and who are opposed to the murderous and intimidating schemes of the Ku Klux party, to join with us in saving the government from the hands of those whose pleasure it would be to overturn and destroy it.

Resolved, 7th. That we believe the Common School System of Education, to be right, and just, and that we urge the School Committee, in the different Townships, to take such steps as necessary, to secure the speedy establishment of schools in this county.

The secretary of the Senatorial Convention announced that J. E. McFarland, had been unanimously nominated as the candidate for the Senate.

On motion his nomination was ratified by this meeting.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

Delegates from the Counties of Rutherford, Polk and Cleveland, met in the Court House, at Rutherfordton, on Saturday 11th June.

When on motion, Hon. Jesse Rhodes, of Polk, was called to the chair and Capt. J. B. Eaves, was requested to act as secretary.

The object of the meeting being explained after some consultation between the delegates, John E. McFarland, Esq., was unanimously nominated as the Republican candidate in the 38th Senatorial District.

On motion, The meeting adjourned.

JESSE RHODES, Ch'm.
J. B. EAVES, Sec.

A box containing a pig was received at the office of the American Merchant's Union Express Company in St. Louis, on the 22d inst., from Abingdon, Ill., bound to Atchison, Kansas. On the way bill accompanying the same was written as follows:

"Please give this porker proper care. You messengers and transfer men, And see that water, food and air, Are each supplied him in his pen."

"His wants, though urgent, are but few; Please give him water to his fill, And when his tedious journey's through His owner says he'll pay the bill."

"A BIT OF DECENT FIGHTING."

A gentleman who was an eye witness relates that some Irish peasants belonging to a hostile faction met under peculiar circumstances. There were two on one side and four on the other, and, therefore, there was likely to be no fight.

But in order to balance the number, one of the numerous party joined the other side, "bekase, boys," he said, "it would be a burnin' shame, so it would, for four to lick two; and except I join them, by the powers there's no chance of there being a bit of sport or row at all!" The result was that he and his new friends were victorious, so honestly did he fight.

A little boy, residing in a village in which the small-pox was prevalent, vaccination, its merits and effects, were the theme of talk. Sunday morning he started for Sabbath school. During the exercises the teacher asked him if he had ever been baptized. Small-pox and vaccination happening to be uppermost in his mind, and being rather too young to know the difference between the sound of "baptized" and "vaccinated," and being ashamed to be thought ignorant, he promptly and rather pompously answered: "Yes sir, I have been baptized five or six times; but I never took!"

At the last masked ball of the Grand Opera, Paris, a domino said to a gentleman: "Do try to squeeze into my box." "I would like to squeeze into your heart, madame." "My dear boy, 'tis as full as an omnibus on a rainy day." "Make somebody get out."

"I can't; they've all paid their fare."

What letter has never been used but twice in America? A.

A STRONG TEMPTATION.

A young man, or rather a boy, for he was not sixteen years of age, was a clerk in one of the great mercantile establishments in New York. An orphan and poor, he must rise, if he rose at all, by his own exertions. His handsome, honest face, and free, cordial manner, won him the friendship of all his fellow-laborers, and many were the invitations he received to join them in the club-room, in the theatre, and even to the bar-room. But Alfred Harris had the pure teachings of a Christian mother to withhold him from rushing headlong into dissipation and vice; and all the persuasions of his comrades could not induce him to join them in scenes like this. He feared the consequences.

One evening, one of his fellow clerk, George Warren, the most high-toned and moral one among them, invited Alfred to go home with him to supper and make the acquaintance of his family. The boy gladly assented, for he spent many lonely evenings with only his books and his thoughts for company.

He found his friend's family very social and entertaining.—Mrs. Warren, the mother, was a pleasant, winning—I might almost say—fascinating woman; one of the kind whose every act is praiseworthy. Mr. Warren was a cherry, social gentleman fond of telling stories, and amusing young people. And George's sister, Jesse—how shall I describe her? A girl about Alfred's own age, a half-bashful, half-saucy, dimpled-faced, rosy-cheeked maiden, sparkling with wit and pleasantry, and pretty enough for any young man to fall in love with at first sight.

This was Mr. Warren's family, and it was no wonder that Alfred was charmed with them.—They were not very wealthy people, but were in easy circumstances, and on a prominent road to fortune. Alfred very soon felt as if he had known them for years. The supper was delicious, especially to a boy whose small salary could afford him only the plainest living.

After supper wine was brought in. Mrs. Warren poured it out herself, and with a winning smile passed a glass of the sparkling liquid to their guests. Alfred took it with some hesitation, but did not raise it to his lips. Each of the family held a glass, waiting to pledge their visitor. But Alfred feared to drink. He set the goblet on the table, while a burning flush overspread his face.

"What! do you not drink wine?" asked Mrs. Warren, in her pleasant tones.

"I have been taught not to drink it," said Alfred.

"You have had good teaching, I doubt not," said the lady, "and I honor you for respecting it, but I think it makes a difference where and in what company you take it. I should not be willing for George to go into the bar-room in company with dissipated young men, and call for wine, but at home, in the family circle, it is different. A moderate use of wine never hurts any one. It is only when carried to excess that it is injurious. You had better drink yours. So little as that will never hurt you."

Jesse was sitting by Alfred.—She took up the glass he had set on the table, and gave it to him with a charming smile.

"Drink it for my sake," she said.

Again he took the goblet in his hand. The glowing wine was tempting, but the faces around him were more tempting still.—

He raised it toward his lips. But at that moment there rose up before him a pale, sweet face, with pleading eyes—the face of his mother in heaven. The boy laid down the glass with a firm hand, and with firm tones he said:

"I cannot drink it. It was my mother's dying request that I should never taste of wine, and if I disregard it now, I fear greater temptations will follow. You must pardon my seeming discourtesy, but I cannot drink it."

A silence fell upon the little circle. None spoke for several minutes.

Then Mrs. Warren said, in a voice choked with emotion:

"Forgive me, my boy, for tempting you to violate your conscience. Would that all young men would show as high a sense of duty."

Every one of the family put down their wine untasted.

"The boy is right," said Mr. Warren. "Drinking wine leads to deeper potations. We have done wrong in setting such an example before our children.—Here, Ellen," he called to the servant, "take away this decanter."

And, as the table was cleared of the wine and glasses, Mr. Warren said, solemnly:

"Now, here, in the presence of you all, I make a solemn vow never to have any more wine on my table, or drink it myself, as a beverage; and may my influence and precepts be as binding on my children as the request of this boy's mother to him."

And Mrs. Warren softly responded:

"Amen!"

Mr. Warren turned to Alfred. "We are not drunkards or wine bibbers here, my boy. I have always preached temperance to my children, but I have never realized before how an occasional glass of wine, if partaken of in good society, could injure. I see it now. If a person can drink one glass, he can drink another, and yet another, and it is hard to know just where to draw the line. I thank you for this lesson. I will show that I have as much manliness as a mere boy. My children, will you follow my example, and pledge to abstain totally from wine as a beverage."

"Yes, father we will," was the response.

This pledge was never broken by any of the family, and never did Alfred have cause to regret that he resisted the temptation to drink one cup of wine.

Years afterward, when he was a prosperous and worthy merchant, the sweet Jessie Warren was his wife, they often spoke of the consequences that might have followed, had he yielded to that one temptation; and Jessie tries to impress as firm principles upon the minds of her children as her husband's mother instilled into the heart of her boy.

An Irishman, being asked by an angry master what he did to the dog every day, to make him cry out as if cruelly treated.

"Cruelly trait him, yer honor? Not I! I never could hurt a poor dumb cratur in my life; but yer honor bade me cut his tail, and so I cut only a little bit off every day to make it more aisy for him."

"Where have you been, Charley?"

"In the garden, ma."

"No—you have been swimming; you know I cautioned you about going to the creek. I will have to correct you. Look at your hair—how wet it is."

"Oh, no, ma, this isn't water, it's sweat!"

"Ah, Charley, I have caught you fibbing—your shirt is wrong side out."

(Charley, triumphantly).—"Oh, I did that just now, ma, climbing the fence."

Jim Smiley's Frog.

He cotched a frog one day and tuk him home, and said he cal'clated to educate him; and so he never done nothing for three months but jest stayed in his back yard and learn that frog how to jump. And you bet he did learn him, too.

He'd give him a little punch up behind, and the next minute you'd see the cussed critter whirling in the air like a doughnut. Sometimes, when he got a good start, he'd turn a summerset, or maybe a couple of em, and come down ker flop, all right, like a cat. He got him up so in the matter of catching flies, and kept him in practice so constant that he'd nail a fly every time, as far as he could see him.

Smiley said all the frog wanted was education, and he could do almost anything, and I believe him. Why, I've seen him set Daniel Webster down on the floor—Daniel Webster was the name of the frog—and sing out: "Flies, Dan'l flies," and quicker'n you could wink he'd spring up and snake a fly off'n the counter there and flop down on the floor again as solid as a gob of mud, and then fall to scratching the side of his head with his hind foot, as indifferent as if he hadn't no idee he'd done any more'n any other frog might do. You never seed a frog so modest and straightfor'ard as that frog was, for all he was so gifted. And when it come to a square jump on a dead level, why, he could git over more ground at one straddle than any animal of his breed you ever seed. Jumping on dead level was his strong suit, you understand, and when it come to that Smiley would ante up money onto him as long as he had a red. Smiley was monstrous proud of his frog, and well he might be, for fellers what had traveled and bin everywhere all said he laid over every frog that they ever seed.

Well, Smiley kept the ugly cuss in a little lattice box, and he used to fetch it down sometimes, and lay for a bet. Once a feller—a stranger in these parts, he was—come across him with his box, and says he:

"What mought that be you've got in that box?"

And Smiley says, sorter indifferent like: "It mought be a parrot, or it mought be a canary bird, maybe! But it ain't, it's just a frog!"

And the feller tuk it, and looked at it careful, and turned it round this way and that, and says:

"H'm—so 'ts. Well, what in thunder is he good for?"

"Well," Smiley says, easy and careless, "he's good enough for one thing I should judge—he can just out jump any frog in Calaveras county."

The feller tuk the box again, and tuk another long and particular look and then gives it back to Smiley, and says very deliberate:

"Well, I don't see any pints about that frog that's any better'n any other frog."

"Maybe you don't," says Smiley. "Maybe you understand frogs, and maybe you don't understand 'em; maybe you ain't only an amateur, as it were. Anyways, I've got my opinion, and I'll risk forty dollars that he can outjump any frog in Calaveras county."

The feller studied a minute or two, and then says kinder sad like: "Well, I'm only a stranger here, and I ain't got nary forg, but if I had a frog I'd bet with you."

And then Smiley says: "That's all right, stranger! That's all right! If you'll hold my box a minute, I'll go and git you a frog," and so the feller tuk the box, and put up his forty dollars along with Smiley's, and sot down to wait.

So he sot there a good while, thinking to himself, and tuk the forg out and priezd open his mouth and tuk a teason and filled him chock full of quail shot—filled him pretty near to the chin, and then sot him on the floor. Smiley went out to the swamp and slopped round in the mud for a long time, till he kotched a frog, and brought him in, and gin him to the feller and says:

"Now, if you are ready, jest set him alongside of Dan'l with his fore paws even with Dan'l's, and I'll give you the word." Then he says, "one—two—three—jump!" and him and the other feller touched up the frogs from behind, and the new frog hopped off lively as a cricket, but Dan'l never moved a peg—he gave a heave, histed up his shoulder—so—like a Frenchman, but it warn't no use; he couldn't no more stir than if he was anchored out.

Smiley was a good deal surprised, and he was disgusted, too, but he didn't have any idee what the matter was, of course.

The feller tuk the money started away, and when he was going out of the door he sorter jerked his thumb over his shoulders—at Dan'l, and says again, very deliberate, "Well, I don't see no pints about that frog that's any better'n any other frog."

Smiley stood thar scratching his head, and looked down at Dan'l a long time, and at last he says: "I do wonder what in the name of creation that frog throwed off for that a'way. I wonder if their ain't something the matter with him: he 'pears to look mighty baggy somehow." And he tuk hold of Dan'l by the nape of the neck and lifted him up and says:

"Why, blame my cat, if he don't weigh five pounds!" And then he turned him upside down and shuck him a little, 'when most a double handful of shot come rattlin' out of him on to the floor! Then Smiley seed how it was, and he was the maddest man! He dropped the frog and tuk after that feller, but he never cotched him.

Little Howard K., of Alden, Illinois, came into the room where his mother had just hung up a clean curtain, and made the astute observation: "Oh, ma, the window has got on a clean shirt!"

An Illinois grave-digger, who buried a man named Button, sent a bill to his widow as follows: "To making one Button-hole, $2.50."

"There is a world beyond where there is no change," said a good parson to a youthful sprout of rather cool propensities. "I wonder," said the youth, "if they use postage stamps in that country?"

A facetious boy asked one of his playmates why a hardware dealer was like a boot-maker? The latter, somewhat puzzled, gave it up. "Why," said the other, "because the one sold the nails and the other nailed the soles."

Write not one more letter than you can help; the man who keeps up a large correspondence is a martyr tied, not to the stake, but to the post.

What is mind? No matter. What is matter? Never mind. What is the nature of the soul? It is immaterial.

"The rich," said a Dutchman, "eat venison because it is deer. I eat mutton because it ish sheep."

There is a young lady in Elmira who is so refined, that instead of calling an ill-bred person a blackguard, she speaks of him as an African Scentinel.

Another bought an horse for $300 and in one week $800. I will send you method on receipt of One Dollar. JESSE C. MANNING & CO. St. Louis, Mo. 20-1f. Care of Box 27.

Violent Men--Violent Measures.

The so-called Democratic--conservative party is composed of violent men. The great majority of the party are men who remained at home during the war and made money by oppressing the families of the Confederate soldiers. These men are to-day more hostile toward the National and State governments than Jefferson Davis. For instance: Z. B. Vance, E. J. Warren, J. M. Leach, Wm. A. Graham and Josiah Turner, the King of the Ku Klux Klan. These men are desperate. Their object is to get control of this State, and they do not scruple to wink at and apologize for the murders and assassinations committed by the Ku Klux. The Ku Klux Klan has their countenance and support. Having despaired of regaining control by fair means, they resort to the knife and bullet of the assassin. The outrages which have been committed in this State, is conclusive evidence of what we have said.

The nominations made by the Democrats thus far show what they intend to do. They have nominated violent men--men who will not hesitate to undo all that has been done by the Republican party for the elevation of the colored race, and the advancement of the State. If they should succeed in electing two-thirds of the members of the General Assembly, they will call a Convention, and North-Carolina will soon be in the same condition that Tennessee is. Z. B. Vance is nominated in Mecklenburg for the Senate. E. J. Warren, is nominated in Beaufort for the Senate. J. M. Leach is nominated for Congress, and Josiah is kept busy apologizing for the Ku Klux. The nominations made for this County bears out in the assertion that the Democratic party means violent, bitter measures. The expense and trouble which attend the reconstruction of this State, will all have been spent in vain, if the Democrats succeed in electing a majority of the members to the General Assembly. There is no gammon in this. We mean what we say. Look at Tennessee and take warning. The Home-Steak guaranteed by the Constitution will be abolished; the lien laws passed for the protection and encouragement of the laborer and mechanic, will be repealed; the limitation of the tax upon land to two dollars or three hundred dollars worth, and the poll tax at two dollars, will be done away with, and the people left at the mercy of the very men who passed the tithing laws, the impressment laws, and who suspended that great protector of American Liberty--the writ of habeas corpus. The law will be defied, the Constitution trampled upon, and the bowie knife and the pistol in the hands of midnight disguised assassins, will very soon rid this State of Republicans. Take warning white and colored Republicans and vote accordingly.

George Martin Whiteside.

This gentleman is the nominee of the Ku Klux Democracy for the Senate. Our correspondent "Rutherford," stated that it was said that Mr. Whiteside voted for a bill to call a Convention. The journal of Senate--session 1869 and 1870, page 591, shows that Mr. Whiteside, with nine other Democrats, voted to call a Convention.

Mr. Whiteside voted to repeal the appropriation granted to build the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad. The Senate journal, page 364, gives the vote where the bill passed second reading. The name of Mr. Whiteside is recorded as voting for the passage of the bill. Page 366, gives the vote upon the final passage of the bill. Mr. Whiteside voted for the bill.

We call the attention of our readers to these facts. More next week.

Plato Durham.

This gentleman is the nominee of the Ku Klux Democracy for Congress. His brethren make a great hue and cry about taxation, about the appropriations made to Railroads. The journal of the House of Representatives--page 188, shows that Mr. Durham voted for the appropriation of four million of bonds to the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad Company. Page 189 shows that Mr. Durham voted for the appropriation of two millions to the Atlantic, Tennessee and Ohio Railroad Company. With this record staring Mr. Durham in the face, he will probably have little to say about appropriations to Railroads.

The Meeting Last Saturday.

We give on our first page full proceedings of the meeting held at this place the 11th inst. To say the least we can of the meeting it was a success, every Township in the County was represented, and perfect harmony prevailed, every candidate was nominated on the first ballot except four of the Commissioners, who were nominated on the second ballot, and this too without placing in nomination any man. The delegates voted for those who they believed would make the best officers, and in every instance the nominations were made unanimously, every one present seemed to wish to act for the good of the party, by nominating acceptable men, which they came as near doing as we have ever seen in any meeting.

We do not believe their is a shadow of a doubt, but that the ticket will be triumphantly elected in August next. Let the party work and we will stop Ku Kluxing for all time to come.

The Convention.

To-day the republicans of this Congressional District, meet at Asheville to nominate a candidate for Congress. We can not tell who the lucky man is to be, but let him be who he may, if true to the interests of the party he will receive our support, and is entitled to the support of every man in the district who desires peace and order, for be it said, no more ultra man be found in the State, than the Conservative candidate in this district. Then if the Convention acts wisely they will put forward a good man. The citizens this side of the Mountain only ask, that we may be treated fairly, and we have every reason to believe that we will in the Convention.

How to make Money.

We are sure that all will read what we are going to say now, for this is what we all desire to do, money is what we all wish for. Well, what we are going to say is this: We have been blessed this year with a most bountiful fruit crop, and all from the richest to the poorest, can if they will go to work, dry innumerable pounds of different kinds of fruit, and they will sell. The cherry crop, black-berries, apples, peaches, and intact any kind of dried fruit is in demand, and will command the cash. We have not the least doubt in the world but what with energy, there can be in this county alone, fruits enough dried, to bring one hundred thousand dollars this year, this looks large, but to your figures, how many pounds of black-berries can be dried, and how many pounds of other fruits, think of it, make your calculations, and then act upon them. There is no use to complain of scarcity of money if all would go to work, we are blessed with opportunities to do well, but if we act the sluggard, we would not make money though we were in the mines of Eldorado, then to work and you will succeed.

We propose to publish soon a full price list of different kinds of dried fruit, and such hints, as to the drying and saving the same as we may be able to procure. Can not some of our friends give us some articles for publication on this subject, it might assist us in "how to make money."

Since writing the above, we have received weekly price current, published by a firm in Baltimore, from which we make the following extract of prices.

Western North Carolina--Extension Railway Co.

Hon. A. H. Jones, has introduced in Congress, a bill, incorporating branches of the contemplated Southern Trans-continental Railway Company, under the name and style of the Western North Carolina Extension, Railway Company.

Section 1st, Provides that the companies of the eastern and western divisions, of the Western North Carolina Railroad, Wilmington, Charlotte & Rutherford Railroad, and the Spartanburg, & Union Railroad, or any two of said Companies may consolidate.

Sec. 2. The object of the company, is to construct a Southern Trans-continental Railway connecting the ports of New Bern, Wilmington and Charleston, on the Atlantic, with San-Diego California, on the Pacific.

Sec. 3. Provides for the roads consolidating, on such terms as may be agreed upon between the parties.

Sec. 4. Provides for constructing said roads from the present running terminus, to Asheville, for making running arrangements with other roads, and for purchasing or accepting as donations, lands or other property to aid in carrying out the object of said company.

Sec. 5. Provides for the terms of consolidation contracts, or purchase, to be agreed upon by contracting parties.

Sec. 6. The name and style of said roads consolidated, shall be, "Western North Carolina, Extension Railway Company."

Sec. 9. Provides that the same number of sections of public land shall be granted per mile of said roads, by the United States, as was granted to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company.

Sec. 10. Provides for the time and manner of granting public lands.

Sec. 11. Provides for the selling of said lands.

Sec. 12. Provides that the capital of said Company shall never exceed thirty millions of dollars.

Sec. 13. Locates the principal office, at Asheville.

Sec. 14. Requires all meetings of Directors, to be held at Asheville.

Sec. 15. Provides for Directors of the Company.

The remaining ten sections of the bill, provides for elections of officers, for voting in said elections, number of Directors, &c. &c.

The bill in its different provisions, strikes us as entirely practicable, and feasible, and we hope Mr. Jones will succeed in getting the same through Congress, as it will open up the resources of Western North Carolina, to an extent which will be of innumerable benefit to our people, and we can see no good reason why the scheme may not succeed, as Congress has granted donations to other works of Internal Improvements and why not North Carolina receive a share of the public lands in this way. We shall look forward to the early action of Congress, in this matter, and hope we may not be disappointed, in our expectations of help. Mr. Jones deserves great credit for this move, and we are sure will be rewarded for his exertions in its behalf.

Ku Klux in Catawba.

Below we publish a letter of Lt. Gov. Caldwell, written to the Standard, in regard to outrages by the Ku Klux of Catawba, truly a sad state of things exist in North Carolina, and it is all traceable to the teaching of the Conservative leaders. How long must Republicans endure this treatment. We tell the party who have brought this thing about, that it must be stopped, if it is not, Republicans will have to organize and retaliate, and then will come times such as will make the stoutest heart quail.

Do the Conservatives wish such times, if not their allies must stop their bloody work.

Mr. Editor: On last Wednesday, Andrew Ramsour of Catawba county, came to this place, having fled from his own County to save his life. He reported to me that a band of disguised men, numbering some thirty or forty, came to his house on the Monday night previous between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock, and took him from his house, made him take off his shirt, and gave him a most cruel and brutal whipping upon his naked back. I made him pull off his shirt, so that I might with my own eyes see the evidence of the barbarous and inhuman treatment. Mr. J. Monroe Kincaid, a good citizen of our County, being present in my office at the time. We saw for ourselves that he had been most unmercifully whipped; he was lacerated with stripes from his shoulders to his hips. He could not have received less than from 75 to 100 lashes. His shirt was besmeared all over with blood. It was one of the most sickening sights I ever beheld, and I do most earnestly pray God that I may never behold such another. Poor Ramsour said he did not know what to do. He had left his home, his wife and his children because he feared his life would be taken if he remained at home. He did not know who to apply to for redress and protection in his own county, as it might be that some of the Justices and officers of the laws belonged to the disguised band who had so cruelly treated him. He said they were so disguised that he could not recognize the faces or persons of any of them, but that he could swear positively to the voices of two or three of them; that he knew their voices just as well as he knew their faces, and that he could not be mistaken. I advised him to go immediately to Statesville, and to make such affidavit as he could truly make before Judge Mitchell, and ask for a bench warrant, so that the miserable desperadoes might be arrested and carried before the Judge for examination, that I felt sure the Judge would do all he could to put down such lawlessness. I then wrote to Judge Mitchell in Ramsour's behalf, telling him the tale as Ramsour had told it to me; in forming him also that I had examined Ramsour's back and seen evidences of the truth of a portion of his story. I also requested Judge Mitchell to look at the lacerated back himself, and be satisfied that some fiend in human shape had set the law and authority of the State at defiance, and was inaugurating in our midst a reign of terror, destruction and death, and besought him to give all his aid and influence, as I felt sure he would to bring the devils to justice. I learn that Judge Mitchell acted promptly in the matter, issued his warrant for those accused, and ordered them to be brought before him at Chambers in Statesville, on Tuesday, the 13th inst. I do most sincerely trust that even handed justice will be meted out to such as may be found to be guilty, and that no south-rage will ever be again perpetrated in North Carolina.

Very respectfully,

TOD R. CALDWELL.

P. S. A colored man was also taken out by the same band of outlaws at the same time and place, and treated in like manner, as I have been informed by Ramsour.

I should have stated it in the body of my letter that Ramsour has the character of being a harmless, inoffensive citizen, an industrious man, and a man of some property. His only offence, so far as is known, was that he is a Republican.

T. R. C.

Morganton, June 15, 1870.

A drunken man, after trying in vain to keep on the sidewalk, was heard to exclaim as he headed for the middle of the road, "There now; go, in the street, if you want to!"

A little boy was once asked if he had any liking for cats. "Oh, yes," he replied, "I like them very much--to throw stones at."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE TUCHINA SPIRALS OR PORK WORM. Perhaps it is not generally known that the much talked of Tuchina spiralis, or pork worm, was first discovered in America by Dr. R. C. Kendall, of Philadelphia, Pa., with that American instrument known as the Craig Microscope, costing only $2.75, after repeated failures to discover the worm with an imported microscope, costing $55, "of feeble power and less reliable." This fact Dr. Kendall stands ready to prove at any time. "Craig" Microscope in neat box, with full directions is mailed anywhere for $2.75, by E. H. Ross, 313 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo. Read the advertisement in this paper. 20-3m

A WONDERFUL MICROSCOPE--Rev. Daniel Wise, D. D., editor of the New York Sunday School Advocate, thus speaks of the celebrated Craig Microscope:

"Its simplicity, cheapness and great magnifying power struck me with surprise. Then I was examining a fly's eye, and in its aid, and was struck with wonder at the skill and power of the Creator which is displayed in its structure. When I saw a statement in an advertisement that the Craig Microscope magnified one hundred diameters, and could be bought for $2.50, I thought 'it was one of the humbugs of the hour, for I had paid $20 for a microscope not long before. But now I find it to be a really valuable instrument which I should like to see introduced into the families of our readers in place of the manifold useless toys which please for an hour and are then destroyed. This microscope would both amuse and instruct them and I advise every boy and girl who wishes to know the wonders which lie in little things to save his money until he has $2.75, which will pay for the microscope and the postage when sent by mail."

As a holiday gift this microscope is unsurpassed, being ornamental, instructive, amusing and cheap, and never loses its interest. Agents and dealers supplied on liberal terms. A simple will be mailed, post paid, to any address for $2.75, by E. H. Ross, 313 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo. Read the advertisement in another column. 20-3m

The Living Machine.

Injure the main spring of a watch and every portion of the works becomes disordered. The human stomach is to the human system what that elastic piece of metal is to a chronometer. It influences the action of the other organs, and controls, to a certain extent, the whole living machine. The comparison may be carried further: for as the weakness or other imperfections of the main spring is indicated on the face of the timepiece, so also is the weakness or other disorder of the stomach betrayed by the face of the invalid. The complexion is sallow or faded, the eyes are devoid of lustre and animation, and there is a worn, anxious expression in the whole countenance which tell as plainly as written words could do, that the Great Nourishing Organ whose office it is to minister to the wants of the body, and to sustain and renew all its parts, is not performing its duty. It requires renovating and regulating, and to accomplish this end Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be truly said to be the One Thing Needful. The broken main spring of a watch may be replaced by a new one, but the stomach can only be repaired and strengthened, and this is one of the objects of the famous vegetable restorative which for eighteen years has been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia in all climates. As a specific for indigestion it stands alone. When the exhausted, without, at best, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome and palatable, yet powerful, stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland, as well as upon the stomach and bowels, the Bitters act with singular distinctness, regulating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend. BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

All women know that it is beauty, rather than genius, which all generations of men have worshipped in the sex. Can it be wondered at, then, that so much of woman's time and attention should be directed to the means of developing and preserving that beauty! Women know, too, that when men speak of the intellect of women, they speak critically, tamely coolly; but when they come to speak of the charms of a beautiful woman, their language and their eyes kindle with an enthusiasm which is not to be profoundly, if not indeed, ridiculed. It is part of the natural sagacity of women to perceive all this, and therefore employ every allowable art to become the goddess of that adoration. Preach to the contrary, as we may against the arts employed by women for enhancing their beauty, there still stands the eternal fact, that the world does not prefer the society of an ugly woman of genius to that of a beauty of less intellectual acquirements. The world has yet allowed no higher mission to women than to be beautiful, and it would seem that the ladies of the present age are carrying this idea of duty to no greater extremes than ever, for all women now to whom nature has denied the Uranian power of beauty, supply the deficiency by use of most delightful toilet articles, known as the "Bloom of Youth," which has been lately introduced into this country by GEORGE W. LAMM, a delicate beautifier, which smooths out all indentations, furrows, scars, removing tan, freckles, and discolorations from the skin, leaving the complexion clear, brilliant, and beautiful, the skin soft and smooth. With the assistance of this new American trick of a lady's toilet, female beauty is destined to play a larger part in the admiration of men and the ambition of women than all the arts employed since her creation. Prof. C. F. Chandler, Chemist to the Metropolitan Board of Health, has recently prepared a chemical analysis of this delightful toilet preparation, and reported that the "Bloom of Youth" was harmless, containing nothing injurious to the health. Ladies need have no fear of using this invaluable toilet acquisition.

Preparation of Compound

EXTRACT BUCHU.

The component parts are BUCHU, L. LEAF, CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.--Buchu, in various Berries, by distillation, to form a gin. Cubebs extracted by displacement of spirits obtained from Juniper Berries. A little sugar is used, and a small proportion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now use.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys its active principle, leaving a dark, glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of predominate; the smallest quantity of other ingredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacy, nor is it a Syrup--and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exist. In this, you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of preparation. Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that upon inspection it will meet with your approbation.

With a feeling of confidence,

I am, very respectfully,

HEMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the great specific for Universal Lassitude, Prostration, &c.

The constitution, once affected with Organic Weakness, requires the aid of Medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which is invariably efficacious. If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or insanity ensues.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT OF BUCHU

In affections peculiar to Females, is unequalled by any other preparation, as in Chlorosis, or Retarded, Painfulness, or Suppression of Catamenial Evacuations, Ulcerated or Scirrhous State of the Uterus, and all complaints incident to the sex, or the decline or change of life.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU AND IMPROVED ROSE WASH.

Will radically exterminate from the system diseases arising from habits of dissipation, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience or exposure; completely superseding those unpleasant and dangerous remedies, Copoiva and Mercury, in all these diseases.

USE HELMBOLD'S Fluid Extract Buchu

In all diseases of these organs, whether existing in male or female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. It is pleasant in taste and odor, "immediate" in action, and more strengthening than any of the preparations of Bark or Iron.

Those suffering from broken-down or delicate constitutions, procure the remedy at once.

The reader must be aware that, however slight may be the attack of the above diseases, it is certain to affect the bodily health and mental powers.

All the above diseases require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is the great Diuretic.

A Woman's Dreams.

She sat alone in the moonlight, her beautiful cheek rested upon her hand, so soft and white and dimpled. You could tell, as you looked at her, that her thoughts were far away, and that she was thinking of something beautiful. Her eyes were wistful; her lips were softly pressed together; the dimples in her cheeks had died out, and only the dimple in her chin remained, that little rosy cleft, the impress of Love's finger. She was less glowing than at times, but none the less lovely. I thought to myself, as I looked at her, that she was nearer heaven than we coarser mortals, and I longed to know whether her pure heart turned itself. I approached her; she did not hear me. I spoke; she did not answer.

I touched her softly on the arm; she looked up and smiled, a far away smile, as angel might have given.

"You are thinking very intently," I said.

She answered, "Yes," in a subdued tone of voice, as though that which was on her mind was too holy for discussion. But I persisted.

"Will you tell me what your thoughts were?" I asked.

She shook her head. "You could not understand," she said.

"I could try," I said humbly; "I am coarse and rude I know, but I could strive to comprehend."

"She smiled sweetly, but still with that far away look in her dark eyes.

"No, not coarse," she said, "but you are a man. It is different with men; were you a woman you would understand at once. Now, perhaps, you may smile, may laugh at me."

"Believe me, no," I whispered; "I adore the beautiful, the true the pure. Let me know your sweet thoughts."

She gave me her hand. "I will tell you," she said, "I have thought of nothing else all day. Last night I lay awake thinking of it. I am sure I must be right; but if I am wrong, oh! I am wrong, Edgar, I tremble at the thought of it."

"I cannot be wrong," I said.

She gave me her other hand. "You think not?" she said; "ah! but you cannot be so good a judge as a woman."

"I think—I believe—"

"Yes, yes," I whispered, bending near; "yes, Angeline."

"I am almost sure, she said, in accent softer than the ripple of falling water, "almost sure, Edgar, that blue fringe will look better on my new walking suit than purple velvet. Don't you think so?"

"As Good as Now."

The following was taken from an almanac published in 1822:

THE WORM.

'Outwreath all the worms of Nile.'

Shakespeare.

Who has not heard of the rattlesnake or copperhead? An unexpected sight of either of those reptiles will make even the lords of creation recoil; but there is a species of worm found in various parts of this State which conveys a nature so deadly that when compared with it even the venom of the rattlesnake is harmless.

To guard our readers against this "foe to human kind" is the object of the present communication. This worm varies much in size; it is frequently an inch through, but as it is rarely seen except when coiled, its length can hardly be conjectured. It is of a dead lead color, and generally lives near a spring or small stream of water, and bites the unfortunate people who are in the habit of going there to drink. The brute creation it never molests; they avoid it with the same instinct that reaches the animals of Peru to shun the deadly Coia.

Several of these reptiles have long infested our settlement, to the misery and destruction of many good citizens. I have, therefore, had many opportunities of being the melancholy spectator of the effects produced by the subtle poison which this worm infuses.

The symptoms of its bite are terrible—the eyes of the patient become red and fiery, his tongue swells to an immoderate size and obstructs his utterance, and delirium of the most horrid character quickly follows. Sometimes, in his madness, he attempts the destruction of his dearest friends.

that rankle in the bosom of a savage and such is the "spell" in which his senses are racked that no sooner is the unhappy patient recovered from the paroxysm of insanity occasioned by one bite than he seeks out his destroyer for the sole purpose of being bitten again!

I have seen a good old father, his locks white as snow, his step slow and trembling, beg in vain for his only son to quit the lurking place of the worm. My heart bled as he turned away; for I knew the fond hope that this son would be to him "the staff of declining years" had supported him through many a sorrow.

Youths of Virginia! Would you know the name of this reptile? It is called the "Worm of the Soil!"

A gentleman in Pittsburgh, Va., has trained four chickens to draw a small wagon in which a rooster is perched. They come when called by name, and when harnessed rattle over the lawn with great speed, while the rooster looks grave and dignified.

Town Ordinances.

The Commissioners of the Town of Rutherford.

1. That all persons living within the corporate limits of said town, liable by Law to work on the public roads, be and they are hereby required to work on the streets and roads in said town six days in each year, or forfeit and pay to the Mayor 75 cents for each day that they may fail so to work, to be used for and recovered as other taxes and duties; Provided, that in the discretion of the Mayor, such work may be rendered by substitute.

2. That any person or persons who shall engage in any fight, riot, or unlawful assembly, or shall be guilty of unbecoming conduct, or make use of unbecoming language or shall curse, or swear, or loud talk to the annoyance of the citizens of said town, shall be fined at the discretion of the Mayor not to exceed twenty five dollars.

3. That if any person shall discharge any firearms, except in cases of actual necessity, or for the purpose of hunting, within the following boundaries, viz: commencing at the Blacksmith shop on the Hickory nut road, then a straight line to the west side of A. H. Roberts' lot, then a straight line to the Tavern road, 100 yards west of Mrs. Corbett's, then a straight line to the Bridge south of J. M. Justice's residence, then with said bridge 50 yards east, then a straight line to the fork of Gilegones Creek, near the Mineral Spring, then with said creek to a point opposite the Male Academy, then to the beginning, shall pay a fine of $1 for each offence.

4. That any person or persons, who shall engage in driving, racing or running horses through the streets, at such speed as to endanger life or property, shall be at the discretion of the Mayor not to exceed five dollars.

5. That if any person or persons shall allow his or their horses, mules or other domestic animals to run at large through the streets (drivers excepted) shall be fined one dollar for each such offence.

6. That any person or persons who shall obstruct any public street or sidewalk by placing thereon, any wood, timber or other thing, and allowing the same to remain more than twenty-four hours shall pay a fine of one dollar for each day such obstruction shall remain.

7. That any person, keeper, or other person engaged in the sale of spirituous liquors, shall sell or give away, any spirituous or malt liquors on the Sabbath day shall pay a fine of one dollar for each such offence.

8. That any person who shall ride or hitch any horse, or other animal upon any sidewalk in said town or any shade tree on the public square, shall pay for each offence one dollar.

9. That all persons residing within the limits of said town be and they are hereby required to return to the Mayor, on or before the 1st day of April, a full and complete list of all subjects of taxation under the ordinances, and upon failure to list the same shall be liable to pay a double tax.

10. That in default of the payment of any fine due for the violation of any of the Town Ordinances, the person or persons so defaulting may be imprisoned not more than thirty days, at the discretion of the Mayor. Provided, that they may be released at any time upon payment of the fine and costs.

11. That any person or persons, who shall register in any business within said incorporation, except those who obtain a regular license shall pay a fine of twenty five dollars for each offence, one half recovered to go to the informer.

12. That these ordinances shall go into effect, ten days from day of publication.

14. That all persons having claims due them from the Town of Rutherford, be and they are hereby required, to present the same duly authenticated, before the Commissioners of said town to be audited and passed upon, before such claim shall be paid.

15. That the regular meeting of the Commissioners of the Town of Rutherford, shall be on the first Thursday in each month.

16. That for the purpose of raising sufficient revenue to defray the necessary expenses and for making repairs in said town, the following tax be levied, and collected on the subjects of taxation mentioned below, viz:

17. That these ordinances are published and declared this 15 day of February 1870.
J. B. CARPENTER, Mayor.

"ALL MATURE HOPES FOR SPRING," 1870.

Witkowski & Rintles.

THE RESULT OF AN ESTABLISHED and successful business, together with a steadily increasing CAPITAL, gives us, every season, better facilities to offer greater inducements to our numerous customers, both WHOLESALE and RETAIL, and hence this notice is worthy the

Attention

Of all. We are now making extensive purchases, which, owing to the very large increase in our business—during 1869, (the tax returns will show $27,000.00 ahead of any house in the City, and figures are stubborn facts,) enables us to buy with impunity as to quantity, and from first hands—namely, Manufacturers, Importers and Commission Houses, thereby, saving from 10 to 25 per cent, over smaller buyers—and it is this advantage that gives us the lead in this market.

Our Stock

Will be completed, or nearly so, by the 10th of March, and will embrace all classes of Goods necessary, either for WHOLESALE or RETAIL, to the inspection of which we invite not only those coming to this Market to purchase, also, those on their way to other places for that purpose.

We offer no balis, business will be conducted in the future, as in the past, viz:

Honorable Competition

against Imposition

Dry Goods Department

Will be complete, and selected with the greatest care, as to style, quality and price.

Clothing Department.

We make a specialty and invite the most fastidious to call and examine.

Boots and Shoes.

Will be bought mostly from manufacturers, in Boston and elsewhere, and we claim to be able to compete with all.

Hats.

Will be purchased at the BROOKLYN AUCTIONS and of NEWARK MANUFACTURERS.

Hardware.

Especially Table and Pocket Cutlery, we buy for Gold, from the Importers

Groceries—there comes the rub.

That line of Goods we buy quantities second to no house in this City, (their assertion to the contrary, notwithstanding) and at as low figures as a dollar, consisting of 100 cents, can buy. In short, come and look at our stock, ascertain our prices, and judge for yourselves.

Millinery Department.

Is complete as usual, and is presided over by Miss ELIST WILLIAMS, who is widely known for her superior taste in that line.

Respectfully,

Witkowski & Rintles.

TESTIMONIALS.

The Waters' Pianos are known as among the very best.—[N. Y. Evangelist.]

We can speak of the merits of the Waters' Pianos from personal knowledge as being of the very best quality.—[Christian Intelligencer.]

The Waters' Pianos are built of the best and most thoroughly seasoned material.—[Advocate and Journal.]

Our friends will find at Mr. Waters, store the very best assortment of pianos and organs to be found in the United States.—[Graham's Magazine.]

Horace Waters, 481 Broadway, is famed for the excellence of his Pianos and Organs.—[Evening Post.]

The Waters' Piano ranks with the best manufactured in America.—[The Independent, N. Y.]

MUSICAL DONORS.—Since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted all his copy and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodeons.

He has just issued a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his pianos have recently been awarded the First premium at several Fairs. Many people of the present day, who are attracted, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival piano houses, probably overlook a modest manufacturer like Mr. Waters; but we happen to know that his earned him a good reputation long before positions and "honors" connected therewith were ever thought of; indeed we have one of Mr. Waters' now in his residence (where it has stood for years) of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud. We have all ways been delighted with it as a and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this, some of the best amateur players in the city, as well as several celebrated pianists, have performed on the said piano, and all pronounce it a superior and first class instrument.

Piano Fortes

Stronger endorsements we could not give.—[Jlome Journal.]
